Note from the Head teacher

Morning Everyone,
As we look forward to the week ahead, I would like to share a little of what the children have been focusing on in their assemblies as part of Black History month. Last week, we learned about how Rosa Parks was an American activist in the civil rights movement and we learned about her pivotal role in the Montgomery bus boycott! This week, we will learn about how Nelson Mandela successfully led the resistance to South Africa's policy of apartheid in the 20th Century and we will compare him to Marcus Rashford, who has campaigned tirelessly to support vulnerable children. Let's think about how we can make a difference. Stand up for what is right and be kind!
This week's inspirational quote: 'Sometimes it takes only one small act of kindness and caring to change a person's life'.
Have a lovely week.
Jane Barnes

Autumn Fair

Please come and support our Autumn Fair on Wednesday, 19 October. We will have a café in school (Central area/Library). We will be selling produce that the children have made:

- Scones made with wheat from our school garden
- Beetroot brownies - beetroot from our garden
- Two varieties of jam made in school with strawberries grown in school
- Apple flapjacks with apples from our school

There is still time to donate your jars. Jars can contain:

To enforce the safe zone, we will be taking photographs of cars parked illegally and will be sending the photos to the parking enforcement people. We request all parents and families to help us keep children and families safe. Thank you for your understanding.
